

Salisbury – The Haunted Crossroads of Delmarva

The largest city on the Delmarva Peninsula – Salisbury – has some heavy energy and remarkable paranormal happenings. The city was nicknamed the “Crossroads of Delmarva because the main north / south and east / west highways intersect there. It’s always been a hub of commerce and known for its historic industries along the Wicomico River. It appears that some of the old spirits are still hanging around – in antique stores, office building, the old fire house, a mansion – and some even say the Salisbury University has a haunted building on its grounds.
